Message from our President

Good day Angus Friends,

It is hard to believe, but another summer is almost past us. I hope this letter finds everyone doing well and that your summer has been enjoyable. As we approach this Labor Day weekend, we will find our thoughts turning to fall and harvest and finishing up projects before winter arrives

In reflection on this summer's events, we have had a number of great activities. Our Breeders Show was again a nice time for our families and thanks to all those who help to pull this together. As always our Juniors have been busy with Eastern Regionals and Nationals and have represented our state well in Lewisburg and Tulsa. My congratulations to all for their hard work and accomplishments. Andrea Foore was the recipient of this year's PA Angus Association scholarship and congratulations to her.

Our Angus on Parade Sale will be held at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition on Saturday, October 3rd. This will be the 2nd year using the video format in addition to live lots at the sale. We have a great line up planned, so check out the catalog (coming soon) at Brubaker Sales. Thank you to our consignors and buyers and I hope to see you there and have a minute to visit at KILE this year.

There are a number of issues in our industry and agricultural that are important for us to be aware of. Some of these include GMO's, COOL, WOTUS, and the international trade agreements being negotiated for a few. The September issue of the Journal has a number of articles on these as well as a series of CAB articles. These issues have the potential to impact our industry and I would suggest that you read these stories to stay atop of these issues.

Best wishes to all of our young people as they start a new school year.

Thank you for all that you do to support our Association and activities. Be sure to let us know how you all do at your county fairs. Remember that our officers and directors are always ready to assist you with your concerns and ideas.

Sincerely,

Gene Trowbridge
President

Dear Pennsylvania Angus Breeder,

Autumn is definitely upon us with temperatures getting cooler, crops starting to come off the fields, and calves being weaned. I've always felt this is a fun time of the year because during weaning you get to see how all your hard work paid off from the breeding season the year prior.

Fall sale season has started strong across the country and here in the Eastern Region. If you're looking to add to your herd or purchase a show heifer this fall, there will be several sales in Pennsylvania, Angus cattle for sale privately, and many sales in neighboring states. If I can be of any assistance at a sale, please do not hesitate to call me.

In August the American Angus Association rolled out an updated look to the AAA Login website. I'm sure if you logged into your account recently you were probably surprised to see the setup of your account changed dramatically. Taking a cue from the current look of smartphones and tablet devices, the login site hopes to be more user-friendly for any producer looking to access or submit data on their herd.

Gone is the Classic Menu page of multiple tabs that, in total, contained over 300 different link options. Instead, the home login page has been broken down into six different categories or graphic buttons as seen in Figure 1. Pop-up descriptions for what can be found under each button are visible as you hover over a specific button.

The My Account button allows you to manage your login profile and password, view account balances and history of work in the office. The My Customers button allows you to maintain a database of customers with their full contact information and sales history with animals they purchased.

From the home login page, the Manage Herd button will likely be one of the more active options you use. Clicking on this button takes you to a set of nine graphic buttons that cover such categories as herd information, submission of registrations, transfers, performance data, DNA testing and results, AI and ET information, and information for the MaternalPlus® and AngusSource® programs. (See Fig. 2)

When submitting work online to the Association, the common buttons for use will be Registration/Transfers/Performance and DNA. If selected, either one will bring up another series of graphic buttons to select from that pertain to each specific topic. This extra level will allow you to narrow in on the topic of your choice and get right to work. The actual submission screens in these areas have not changed, just how you navigate to the area when compared to the Classic Menu.

If you have any questions about the changes, please do not hesitate to contact the American Angus Customer Service department at 816-383-5100 or by email to angus@angus.org.

I look forward to seeing you at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, which for the first time will be a Roll of Victory (ROV) Angus Show!

Safe travels,

The Pennsylvania Juniors will be hosting a Semen Sale at KILE to benefit our general fund. Look for more information from our Semen Sale Committee.

ERJAS T-Shirts For Sale

The theme of the Eastern Regional is "Join the Angus Team in 2016" with our slogan of Outlast, Outwork and Out-Show. This theme is tying in with the 2016 Summer Olympics. If you are interested in buying a t-shirt for the ERJAS please contact Daniel Rohrbaugh at drohr09@dishmail.net or text at 717-819-2471. T-shirts are a bright aqua blue with the logo on the front. All PA Juniors will wear these at opening ceremonies, so please make sure you have one or order it now. You don't have to be a junior to buy a shirt! They are $15 each and can be delivered to KILE.

In order to help raise funds for the Eastern Regional Junior Angus, we are creating an Angus-Monopoly game and we are currently selling spots called "patron ads," which is where your farm name will be printed on the board. The spots cost $100 and the boards should be ready shortly after Keystone, but definitely by Farm Show.

This is a good opportunity for advertising and a good way to support the juniors as we prepare to host the show next year. Any money donated towards a spot on the board will count towards your donation to Eastern Regionals. For example, if you donate $100 for a spot, you would be in the $100 bracket as a donor for the show. Any money donated on top of that will be added to your total.

If interested, please contact Matthew Mitchell at: mnm5237@psu.edu or (484) 332-3965, make plans to purchase them as gifts for Christmas.

PA SEEDSTOCK PRODUCER OF THE YEAR

Planning for “WOW!”

September 2015

By Danielle Foster, Education & Events Manager, Certified Angus Beef LLC

Selling premium beef or bulls, the single most important tool we have is education. An entire network that starts with Angus breeders supplies the Certified Angus Beef® (CAB®) brand with a product that is unmatched. We know it's good and we know if we get people to truly understand the science of it all, they'll sell more—and add more value to your cattle.

We can take personal pride in creating those educational moments. When my Grandma said, “proper planning and preparation prevents poor performance,” usually she meant some task around the farm that my brother and I were dragging our feet on a bit. But her quote has truly become a mantra for me. From the invites to the moment we send thank-you notes, each event offers teachable moments in context of our premium image.

The food. Think of some events you've gone to... what was most memorable? Many would quickly say it was the food. Many Angus producers have seen firsthand the logistics we go through to bring delicious food to the farm or ranch. We know that we cannot be a premium brand and serve a school cafeteria-style lunch to your attendees.

The agenda. Relevancy is key. Successful people and businesses remain relevant over time. Creating an event agenda carries the opportunity to determine what topics are relevant at that time to that audience. If I'm the planner and see something fun in the current popular context or remember a game about the beef community, I'll find a way to use that fun approach in an educational way.

The logistics. As you keep thinking about events, logistics soon come to mind. There are rentals, restrooms and other things you might not notice until they go wrong (yes, there's a lot to learn about negotiating rates and renting portable restrooms). Although the budget is always a guiding factor, these rentals are a chance to show you are all about quality. Forego the kind of chairs that could break or sink so deep into the grass they'll still be there next year, and go with something a little more stable and secure.

The decor. My family calls me now when they have an event coming up to advise on centerpieces. They know it's my job to make events come to life through decor, whether it is a food & wine festival or a dinner at the ranch. Decor becomes an extension of your messaging and can truly be a memorable part for your attendees.

The mentality. Event planning is a job, yes, but it is driven by a certain attitude. You can plan for anything and everything, but you must expect the unexpected. I have had tornadoes popping up across the plains, large buses that take a wrong turn down a country dirt road, centerpieces that don't get delivered and just about everything else that makes you go "uh-oh." But there's a certain level of excitement and adrenaline that comes from putting that back-up plan into motion. Just like when a tractor gets stuck, a cow needs assistance, the chute breaks while working cattle and so on: it's all about how you handle it. I never saw my dad sweat when things went wrong on the farm and I aim to do the same for our attendees.

You, too, can put a special focus on education and pull off the details that “wow” attendees. Next time you consider your annual sale, your customer appreciation event, your state field day and so on, stop and consider: Do the details you've put into the event match the image you want to convey?

At CAB, whether it is a group of 12, 50 or one of our largest events with hundreds of attendees, a great deal of thought and work goes into making sure the experience reflects the premium image we want to put forward on behalf of your brand.

I take pride in telling YOUR story through each event that I have the fortune to work on. Every detail I put into the event is intended to reflect the details that each of you focus on as you raise a premium product. Thank you for allowing me to tell your story. And if you want to know the ins and outs of renting portable restrooms, we should talk.
